I am psychologist and epidemiologist, currently working as assistant professor at the University Medical Center Groningen and the Faculty of Economics and Business (University of Groningen). I am Gastwissenschaftler at Charité Berlin, My dissertation (2017) was titled “Development of patient centered management of asthma and COPD in primary care” with a strong emphasis on the use of technology and patient involvement. My unique experience in clinical, behavioural and implementation science have led to a solid and multidisciplinary basis for eHealth research. In the past years I have coached and lectured numerous bachelor, master and PhD students with different backgrounds and from different faculties. My goal is to use my talent, experience and my passion for science to improve scientific knowledge in the field of eHealth and enhance the availability of healthcare for deprived populations by using technology. I am regularly visible in national and regional media where I explain the relevance of my research to the public. In 2021 I received a prestigious VENI Grant and I am member of the Young Academy Groningen.

Management skills

In my role as project leader and chair I have learned to manage longitudinal (international) projects with researchers, health care professionals, patients, staff, and students. I have also worked as project leader eHealth in a large health care organization and I am active as board member or advisor in several patient organisations. I have chaired a large international research project in three European countries and the results of this project led to adaptation of the clinical guidelines. These hands-on experiences with patients, health care professionals and health care organisations are valuable in my daily work.
